PTFE Free Product Statement

The European Chemicals Agency (ECHA) has published an Annex XV proposal Dossier that would ban or severely restrict the manufacture, use and marketing of man-made PFAS chemicals. The Dossier concludes that these substances raise human health and environmental concerns, particularly due to their high persistence in the environment and toxicological effects on humans.

To ensure WD-40 Company Limited products supplied to market meet the conditions of the PFAS restriction Dossier, we are now in the process of reformulating and removing PFAS from our affected products as soon as reasonably practicable.

All affected formulations are being rigorously tested to ensure product performance remains equal to or better than the original following PTFE removal.
